Lindale man found guilty in death of woman in Florida

Billy Earl Baker, 52 of Lindale, was convicted of second-degree murder this past week in the death of his girlfriend at a Key West, Fla., beach in 2017, authorities said.

Candice Wesson Cooper, 38 of Big Sandy was found dead on Smathers Beach in Key West. A Monroe County (Fla.) jury found Baker guilty and a sentencing hearing is scheduled to begin Jan. 20, officials said.

Baker was arrested on Jan. 29, 2018, at his home in Lindale taken to the Upshur County Jail before being extradited to Florida.

He entered a not guilty plea to the murder charge on March 27, 2018 and sought a jury trial according to court documents from the 16th Judicial Court in Monroe County.

In 2017, Key West police officers arrived at Smathers Beach checking on a report of a woman who had allegedly passed out in the water and drowned. According to the arrest affidavit, Baker provided a statement on the night of Wesson Cooper's death.

Baker and Wesson Cooper drove to the Keys for a beach trip, the affidavit states, but went to their hotel room instead. Later they decided to swim back to their vehicle instead of walking, according to the affidavit.

Baker told police while he was floating and Wesson Cooper was floating behind his left shoulder a few feet away.

"Billy said he did not hear or see anything, but when he looked over at Candice she was floating face down in the water and not moving," the affidavit stated. "Billy said he let Candice float for a few minutes thinking she was playing around."

Baker then ran to the couple's vehicle and called 911 after he got Wesson Cooper to shore. A passerby tried to revive Wesson Cooper with CPR but was unsuccessful.

During another police interview the next day, Baker refused to answer further questions without a lawyer. Police then allowed Baker to leave, according to arrest records.

The woman who assisted Baker while he was on the beach with Wesson Cooper told police she saw Baker straddling Wesson Cooper who was not wearing a shirt, the document said.

OPINION/EDITORIAL

Gary Borders Capital Highlights

State's workforce surpasses pre-pandemic high

The Texas labor market exceeded the previous pre-pandemic high in February 2020 by hitting just under 13 million nonagricultural jobs in November, the Texas Workforce Commission reported last Friday. The adjusted jobless rate was 5.2% last month, down slightly from the previous month.

"Reaching this milestone for job creation in Texas shows the strength of our economy," TWC Chairman Bryan Daniel said.

The Amarillo area had the lowest unemployment rate among Texas Metropolitan Statistical Areas at 3.1%, followed by the Austin-Round Rock MSA at 3.2% and College Station-Bryan at 3.5%.

"Texas continues to reach unprecedented milestones thanks to our unwavering commitment to economic freedom and our young, skilled, growing, and diverse workforce," Gov. Greg Abbott said.

PUC approves electric grid reliability measures

The state Public Utility Commission last week voted unanimously to enhance both short-term and long-term reliability of the state's electric grid through what it termed "major reforms" to the state's wholesale electricity market.

"In prior years, any single one of these changes would have been considered significant. Taken together, they are a generational shift in the Texas electricity market," said Peter Lake, PUC chairman. "This (is) a move away from the crisis-based business model we have operated under for the past two decades. This new model centers on reliability."

Some of the major changes:

- Changes in the mathematical formula used to price electricity when reserves become scarce. The change will provide earlier price signals to add additional generation of power and for large consumers to reduce demand.

- Increasing incentives for large consumers to cut usage when the grid needs additional power.

- New or revamped ancillary services that increase the capacity for generators to react to sudden swings in electricity supply and demand.

Phase two of the process will provide "long-term incentives for investment in reliable power generation infrastructure to ensure Texas will have the power the state's needs for decades," according to the news release.

Count of fatal job injuries for 2020 released

A total of 469 people working in Texas died in work-related incidents in 2020, according to the Texas Department of Insurance. That is a 23% decrease from 2019. The state's incident rate for fatalities was 3.9 per 100,000 full-time employees in 2020, while the national incident rate stood at 3.4.

The construction industry accounted for 27% of the fatalities, with 127 incidents, according to TDI. Fatalities in the transportation and warehousing industries had the second highest, accounting for 20.4% with 96 people killed. Natural resources and mining recorded the third-highest number with 54 fatalities, or 11.5%.

...reaching for Christmas

The last couple of years have brought isolation, loss and loneliness for many. As we approach Christmas Day let us be grateful for what we have, and for what we have had. Life is far too short to hold on to heartbreak, anger and grudges. Follow the light of the Christmas Star to the Prince of Peace and choose joy even in the midst of darkness. The light will come. Hold on, and if you feel that you can't, reach for someone who can. Soon you will find that you are the hand someone else is reaching for. May the light of Christmas fill your heart and feed your soul.

Eagles compete in Central Heights tourney

NACOGDOCHES – After taking two straight wins to begin the Central Heights varsity basketball tournament, the Lindale Eagles boys finished the tournament with a 2-3 record.

The Eagles took care of Hampshire Fannett, 35-34, in their tournament opener and followed that up with a 39-24 victory over Woden.

But things didn't go as well in the next three games as the Eagles fell to Center, 52-41; Brock, 46-41 and Diboll, 44-36.

LINDALE 35, HAMSHIRE FANNETT 34
Entering the Central Heights tournament with a 9-2 record, Hampshire Fannett also brought a No. 24 state ranking to the event.

But the Longhorns were flummoxed by Lindale's defense and running game.

Hampshire was averaging nearly 80 points a game but the Eagles' closed down the Longhorns' attack. "Our kids played a really smart first half," said LHS Head Coach Chris Grotemat. "They really excelled in transition and essentially beat them at their own game."

Ryder Johnson and Walter Smith combined for 15 first half points helping the Eagles build a 24-22 lead at intermission.

The third quarter saw little offensive production from either side but in the fourth, Lindale's game came to life.

Smith connected on a pair of jumpers on assists from Cole Collingsworth as both teams took turns grabbing the lead.

"Our team played its best and most inspired defense of the season," Grotemat said.

Lindale held the high-scoring Longhorns to just 1 of 9 shooting in the fourth period to help secure the win.

After Amare Baptiste was fouled on a put back attempt, the sophomore calmly named both free throws to give the Eagles their 35-34 lead.

Lindale then utilized their fouls wisely, forcing the Longhorns to several out of bounds plays instead of going to the line.

The Longhorns had the ball with one second left but their desperation shot at the buzzer didn't hit iron.

Naturally, Grotemat was ecstatic over the one-point win.

"This was our most impressive win to date," he said. "It was a beautiful way to tip things off in Nacogdoches."

LINDALE 39, WODEN 24

The Eagles weren't able to enjoy their first tournament win for very long, because just 90 minutes later they were back at it against Woden.

Lindale got out of the gate fast, scoring 17 points in the first period with five different Eagles contributing to the offensive output.

Grotemat realized his Eagles were tired after working so hard in the first game as things slowed for his club in the second and third periods.

"There were no excuses, but fatigue was a bit of a factor," he said, referring to his club's sluggishness in the middle frames.

Ryder Johnson dropped in six of the Eagles' 12 points in those two periods and the defense Lindale played in the first game reappeared against Woden.

"Thankfully, we continued to defend at a high level," Grotemat said. "The defense is really starting to take shape, and the fact that we were so engaged on that side of the ball despite our futility shooting the ball tells me that our team is maturing and beginning to carve out a defensive identity for ourselves."

Justin Farris helped to keep Woden at bay with a nimble move in transition for a lay-up and a three pointer. Masen Rainey and Logan Dixon played strongly, and junior Will Hutchens made his varsity debut after nursing a separated shoulder after football season.

"Will is the best," Grotemat said. "(He's) just a wonderful teammate and a jolt of energy and toughness. He is a special competitor, and his presence is invaluable to us."

CENTER 52, LINDALE 41

By winning their first two games, the Eagles earned a berth in the tournament's championship bracket and drew 25th ranked Center in their opening bracket contest.

A slow start doomed Lindale, as Center raced out to a 17-point first half lead.

"The effort was there, but our shooting woes continued," Grotemat said.

The Eagles shot just five of 17 in the first half and missed their first five free throws.

Despite the deficit, Lindale continued to plug away and late push in the third period made things interesting.

Taegan Terry knocked down two of his three long range shots during that late run and Logan Dixon was very impressive in what was his best varsity performance to date, Grotemat said.

The junior guard scored 7 points in the second half to help Lindale trim its deficit to 7, but ultimately, the Eagles simply ran out of time.

BROCK 46, LINDALE 41

Class 3A's third-ranked team, the Brock Blue Eagles, were Lindale's fourth foe of the tournament and much like the game against Center, Lindale couldn't find enough offense.

The Blue Eagles controlled things early on and built a double-digit lead in the second period.

Lindale came to life in the late stages of the period, however, as Colby Wood hit a pair of key baskets and was tenacious on defense.

The Eagles traded baskets with Brock in the third period and remained in striking distance heading into the fourth.

Using a suffocating defense, the Eagles forced 8 turnovers and after baskets after baskets from Baptiste, Farris and Collingsworth, Lindale had trimmed the Brock advantage to 43-41 with under a minute left.

But down the stretch, Brock didn't commit and turnovers and converted their free throws to hang on for the win.

DIBOLL 44, LINDALE 36

With both teams having played five exhausting games, this match featured some tired players on each side with the Lumberjacks managing to escape with an eight-point win.

Both teams struggled with turnovers in the first half, but a pair of three pointers by Walter Smith kept Lindale close in the early going.

Taegan Terry normally a ball-handler, was moved to the high-post as Diboll utilized a 1-2-2 zone defense.

The senior guard was an effective playmaker in the soft spot of that zone defense, while his teammates traded baskets with Diboll throughout the second and third periods.

Lindale was down by five points going into the fourth quarter, but only connected on 2 of 11 shots from the field and just 2 of 6 from the line.

Despite the shooting woes, the Eagles were down by just one after Smith hit a pair of three-pointers.

But some late turnovers allowed the Lumberjacks to take home the win.

"We did a lot of good things over the tournament weekend," Grotemat said. "But we have to fix the shooting while continuing to build on the defensive foundation we're developing."

Grotemat knows it will come down to effort if his club will reach its potential.

"This is a really skilled team, and we will dig ourselves out of this rut, but we absolutely have to put the work in," he said. "We are defending now at a level that will give us a chance to win each night out. It's now incumbent on us to find our rhythm on offense."

Remembrances of Christmases past

Well, it's time to reminisce again.

I'm sure some of you have already started your Christmas shopping. You're puttin' up decorations and such, and gettin' ready for visitors, and plannin' to have a big time.

Some say that they wish Christmas was like it was back when they were kids. When I feel that way, I just close my eyes, and go back.

I remember months before Christmas, wonderin' if it ever would arrive.

I remember prayin' that if I had to die, to make it after Christmas, so I could see what Santa was bringin' me.

I remember school durin' the Christmas season. We'd make Christmas ornaments out of Styrofoam balls with beads held in place with straight pens, then we'd sprinkle glitter all over it.

Man, we thought they were beautiful. We'd make chains with the links made of red and green construction paper that reached all the way around the room. We'd sing Christmas songs and each of us would stand in front of the class and tell what Santa Claus was goin' to bring us.

We were all extra good durin' that time, too. That's because the threat of Santa not comin' to see us if we were bad was held over heads.

We also would be busy getting' ready for the school Christmas program. Back then, it was still OK to include God in school activities. He hadn't been expelled yet, so our Christmas programs always included a Nativity play. I was always a shepherd, 'cause I had a housecoat that my mom had gotten me when I was in the hospital.

"How many of you boys have housecoats?" the teacher would ask. Those of us who did would raise our hands. "OK, y'all are all shepherds," she'd say. I didn't mind bein' a shepherd, but I always had a hankerin' to be Joseph.

I never got to be Joseph. The teachers said I wiggled too much to be Joseph. I never got to be a Wise Man either. That was OK though, they had to wear shiny dress like things and I always thought it made them look like sissies.

You should have seen us shepherds. Some of the housecoats we wore were plaid, and some were checkered, and we all had bath towels wrapped around our heads.

And of course we all had on our blacktop tennis shoes stickin' out from under our housecoats. We looked pathetic.

Luckily, we didn't have to sing. All the girls would be off to the side on the stage doin' all the singin'. Everyone, that is, except the one who played Mary.

The play never went off like it was supposed to, but nobody out in the audience knew.

We knew, and the teacher knew, but that was it. Afterwards, you had to endure all the hugs and cheek pinchin' and head rubbin' from the parents. That goes along with bein' a star, you know.

At home we'd be getting' ready for Christmas, too. We couldn't figure out why Mom always had the snots around Christmas, until she found out she was allergic to cedar.

I remember when we got our first artificial Christmas tree. Mom, my sister Teri, and I put the thing together. Dad was not allowed to help, 'cause mom caught him the year before nailin' the tree to the floor 'cause it kept tippin' over. Anywho, when we got it put, up we stood back and looked at it. It was beautiful. It was shiny aluminum, and I thought we had become rich.

Mom bought all new balls for the tree and they were all blue. Well, all of them except the Styrofoam one I had made in school. Mom put it up front, 'cause she thought it was so beautiful.

Then Mom would start cookin'. She cooked good stuff, too. She made divinity, fudge, chocolate turtles, and a bunch of other stuff. Man, could she cook.

A few days before Christmas, we'd pile into our '59 Chevy station wagon and head into town.

Dad would never say where we were goin' but we always knew. We were goin' to Monkey Wards. Monkey Wards was where Santa Claus was. Man, I couldn't wait. Santa Claus scares some kids, but he never scared me. I loved Santa Claus. The only part I didn't like was havin' to wait in that long line to see him.

My sister, Teri, always let me go first, that way she could cue me as to what to ask for. I wasn't as smart as she was, and I'd get so excited I'd forget what to ask for, and she'd tell Santa for me.

On the way home, Dad would drive down through what we called the rich part of town, and we'd look at the Christmas lights. I'm color blind, so I probably didn't get the full benefit of the lights, but they were still pretty to me. I especially liked the houses that had all blue lights.

Blue is one of the colors I can see pretty well. Dad would always take us by this one house that had a mechanical Santa Claus that was tryin' to climb a tree, and there was a mechanical dog beneath Santa jumpin' up and tryin' to bite him.

The dog had a patch of Santa's suit in his teeth, and Santa's suit was missin' a patch, from the rear end. It was great.

Now, the night before Santa arrived was really excitin'. You see, the local TV station would be trackin' Santa on the weather radar all the way from the North Pole. They'd break in on regular programin' like "The Fowler Playboys" show to let you know when he was gettin' close.

Radar back then wasn't as sophisticated as it is now. It was a round screen with a hand that swept around and each time it passed it would light up a cloud, or in this case it would light up Santa's sleigh. Even though it was sort of crude, you could make out Santa's sleigh and reindeer.

"Well, it looks like Santa's sleigh is moving into the vicinity," Kip Kippenbrock, the weatherman, would say. "All of you good little boys and girls, better head off to bed." Man, he didn't have to tell us twice.

Teri and I would take off. We knew that if you weren't asleep, Santa might pass you by. I'd have my eyes slammed shut, but I'd be listenin' for Santa to land on our roof. The next thing I'd know, it would be mornin'. I'd jump off the bed (you always jump, 'cause that way the things that live under your bed can't grab your legs and pull you under) and run and peek around the corner.

Man, presents were all over the place. Then I'd run back and get Teri. We didn't have to get Mom and Dad, 'cause they heard us screamin' from excitement and they'd join us.

Back then, Santa didn't wrap presents like he does now. Everything was laid out in the open like it was meant to be. That way, you could take it in all at once, and sometimes it was just too overwhelming. Now, I wouldn't get everything I asked for, but I sure got a lot of it. I'd always get some kind of toy gun. I loved toy guns, and still do.

Once, I even got a whole case of caps for my guns. That's right, a whole case, and I didn't even ask for it. I guess after all the guns that Santa had brought me, he knew that I could use a lot of ammo.

I felt sorry for my sister. She never got any good stuff. She got dolls, and a little oven, that actually made cakes, and junk like that. Oh yeah, and those stupid batons that she rattled my brains with all the time. Of course she thought it was good stuff, but I knew better. She did get a little cotton candy machine once that I thought was pretty cool, but that's only because I like cotton candy.

What was really sad, though, was that Santa only brought my parents one gift each. Their gifts were always wrapped. Dad would dig Mom's out from under the tree and give it to her, and she'd do the same for him.

I don't remember what Santa brought them, but it must have been good, 'cause they always hugged and kissed each other after they opened them.

I always saved my stockin' for last. I knew what was in it 'cause it always had the same things, and they were my favorite things. There were a couple of tangerines, a bag of little Hershey candy bars (the dark chocolate ones were my favorite), a bag of Tootsie Rolls, and a Book of Lifesavers. Man, that was a Christmas.

Do you know what I asked for this year? That's right. The only thing I asked for is a couple of tangerines, a bag of little Hershey candy bars, a bag of Tootsie rolls, and a Book of Lifesavers.

Oh yeah, and some 22 bullets. Let me tell you one more thing, the most important thing. Even though we were little kids, we still knew what Christmas was really about. Our parents made sure of that.

We knew we were celebratin' the birth of Jesus. For us, He was, and still is, the most important part of, not only the Christmas Season, but also the rest of the year.

Remember, without Christ, there would be no Christmas. And that, my friends, is what the Christmas Spirit is all about.

Janet and I would like to wish y'all a Merry Christmas, and may God Bless each and every one of you.

ONE YEAR AGO, Dec. 24, 2020

A magical 2020 season came to a sudden conclusion for the Lindale High School Eagles, who lost the state Class 4A championship game to Argyle, 49-21, in AT&T Stadium in Arlington.

Eagles' Head Coach Chris Cochran said it was clear his team lined up against the best team it has faced this year – Argyle has been ranked No. 1 since the first week of the season – but if a few plays had gone the Eagles' way Lindale may have been the club celebrating.

"There were a few areas where we didn't play well," he said earlier this week. "In some spots we did some really good things, but as I've said before Argyle is machine-like and they play in a system they are very good at. They are solid everywhere you look."

FIVE YEARS AGO, Dec. 22, 2016

Former Smith County Judge Joel Baker's trial relating to charges of violating the Texas Open Meetings Act was over before it even began, after Baker elected to take a plea bargain in the case, agreeing to pay a $200 fine for one count of violating the Texas Open Meetings Act, while the other two counts were dismissed.

If Baker had been convicted at trial, he would have faced a fine of up to $500, up to six months in jail or both for each of the three counts that were charged against him.

Baker, who was elected as Smith County Judge in November 2006 and won reelection to his office both in 2010 and 2014, was charged with three counts of violation of the Texas Open Meetings Act, a misdemeanor, in June.

TEN YEARS AGO, Dec. 22, 2011

Lindale's sale tax figures rose 1.5 percent for the November reporting period according to numbers released by Texas State Comptroller Susan Combs. The city had $1,950,116 in revenues for 2011 compared to $1,920,835 for 2010. Smith County had a total of $37,873,041 in 2011 compared to $36,689,866 for 2010.

OBITUARIES

JERRY MICHAEL LANG, JR.
 Jerry Michael Lang, Jr. was born on Nov. 1, 1961, to unsuspecting and naive parents.

He was the cutest baby ever born! As he raised them, they rode a roller coaster of hills, bills, chills, and thrills. Michael attended Lindale schools and graduated in 1980. He excelled in track with a specialty of high jump. He won second at State UIL as a sophomore. He then went on to win State as a junior and senior. He went on to attend Auburn University on a track scholarship and then attended SFA in Nacogdoches.

His work included insurance, mortgage brokering, and servicing compressor engines for natural gas companies.

In addition to his parents, Jerry and Gailia, he is survived by his wife Jennifer; one daughter, Tori; one son, Chris; one grandson, Jeremiah. He is also survived by two sisters, Melita and Melanie; and several nieces, nephews, cousins, aunts, and uncles.
