Eagles bounce Pine Tree; Travel to Van on Friday

By Terry Cannon
Editor

There were smiles all around this past weekend in the Lindale High School field house after the Eagles' 40-17 pasting of the Pine Tree Pirates at Eagle Stadium Friday night, but after a glance at the schedule, the euphoria was short lived.

Next up is a road contest with the Eagles' blood rival Van, winners of its first two games of 2022.

Lindale at Van, 7:30 p.m. Friday

The Eagles, now 1-1 on the year, were on a high after their dominate performance against the Pirates, but Head Coach Chris Cochran knows in the realm of Friday night high school football, feel good moments can be fleeting.

After an opening night loss to Kaufman, Cochran knew his kids needed a confidence boost, something that was helped along with the way they went about their business this week.

"There was a mindset (among the players) going into (the Pine Tree game) that we got humbled against Kaufman but they worked hard this week without prodding," Cochran said. "That paid off in a big way Friday."

The Eagles built at 22-7 lead in the second period on a steady running game and an air attack that clicked when needed.

But the defense, especially in the second half, carried the night.

"(Pine Tree) was gashing us," Cochran said. "But the coaches did such a great job of making adjustments – which weren't complicated – and the kids went out and executed. Our guys played with confidence on both sides of the ball."

Running back Colter Maya scored twice in the first period, on a three-yard run up the middle to finish off an 11-play, 79-yard drive and a couple of minutes later, he scored from nine yards out.

The second Eagle score came after Pine Tree botched the kickoff after Lindale's first score.

Pine Tree came back to make it 15-7 with 11:47 left in the second quarter, but on its next possession, Lindale scored on a 10 yard pass from quarterback Clint Thurman to wide out Marcus Field. It was 22-7 with 6:50 left in the half.

With four seconds left in the half, the Pirates had trimmed the Lindale lead to 22-17, which was a close as they would get the rest of the way.

Key defensive stops, especially in the fourth period, provided Lindale's offense the opportunity to take control of the game.

Now the Eagles will shift their focus to their historic rival down Highway 16.

"It's always a hard-fought, physical game," Cochran said of the Van matchup. "You know you are going to face a tough, scrappy well-coached football team. It's kind of a throwback game, both teams do (fundamental) things well, on both sides of the ball."

The Vandals, 2-0, took down Chapel Hill 23-17, Friday in Van.

Leading 9-3 at the half, Van fell behind 17-16 at the end of the third period but eased ahead with the only touchdown scored in the fourth period.

Chapel Hill, now 0-2 on the year, will host Class 5A Greenville on Friday.

"Both sides really, really want to win this game," Cochran said. "You can tell by the way this game has always been played. Both teams always play to the echo of the whistle."

Lindale ISD lowers tax rate, sets budget

Once again, the Lindale ISD Board of Trustees lowered the tax rate for property owners and approved the budget for Fiscal Year 2022-23 for the district during a special meeting held at the LISD Administration Building the past week.

A tax rate of $1.1696 per $100 valuation for a budget of $43,307,583. The budget was approved first by trustees who then OK'd the new tax rate.

The new tax rate is 2.24 cents lower than last year.

"The Lindale community is fortunate to have a great school board that manages the tax rates so effectively," said LISD Superintendent Stan Surratt. "The LISD Board of Trustees has cut the total tax rate more than 22 cents over the last four years."

Surratt praised the Trustees for being responsible stewards of taxpayer's money.

"To cut the tax rate, again, while managing the growth of the district is a wonderful blessing for Lindale property owners," he said.

The increase in student enrollment, and the need for additional teachers and staff to serve those students, are the main reason for the increase in Lindale ISD budgets this year.

Lindale ISD has experienced about a 5 percent increase in student enrollment which currently stands at 4,490 students.

Smith County, Farmers Branch join forces to fight financial crimes

Smith County Commissioners approved an interlocal agreement with Farmers Branch to fight financial crimes during the board's regular weekly meeting this past week.

This will allow the use of technology from the Financial Crimes Intelligence Center in Tyler.

Smith County Assistant District Attorney Thomas Wilson told commissioners the county had entered into an agreement with Electronic Recovery and Access to Data Group in order to add advanced technology to the Financial Crimes Intelligence Center.

As per this agreement, the county can team with other law agencies throughout the state to share data and information through the system.

Card skimming will be one main focus of the center, Wilson said.

"This will help us here locally, but it will also help the FCIC and other law enforcement entities statewide to combat that organized criminal activity," he said.

Wilson noted other Texas cities are expected to join in the future.

"Since we're kind of the statewide center for that FCIC, I presume there's going to be a whole lot of other agencies that want to connect in," said County Judge Nathaniel Moran.

Funding is provided by the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation, so there will be no added cost to the county, Wilson said.

He also said there will be a limited number of entities that can join. Also during the meeting, commissioners OK'd a request from the 911 District Board to accept the PSAP Project Participation Funding for Smith County.

Smith County Chief Information Officer Don Bell said the money will be used for "needed" radio upgrades for the county's emergency services.

May we never forget...

Just a few weeks ago our son Josh, our only child, was leading helibase attacks on three major wildfires out West. He is waiting now for his second assignment. In November he will travel with a national group of firefighting volunteers who will go to Kenya on a fire mission to train firefighters who have little training and less equipment.

How this all started has deep roots in East Texas, in American tragedy, and in the character of our son and many more young people like him. Josh was a junior volunteer firefighter in high school. He enjoyed helping out our neighbors and he learned a great deal.

As a senior he was the Photo Editor for my high school journalism program. He won his fair share of state and national awards including being named to the ILPC All State Journalism Staff. On 9/11 in 2001, as I was teaching a class full of eager young minds, Josh ran from my staffroom into my classroom shouting that a plane had flown into one of the World Trade Center Towers in New York. Every morning Josh watched the news as he worked on his photos. That day, he broke the news to White Oak High School.

Within minutes we were all watching the scars of American history being slashed into a generation's consciousness. It impacted many of them profoundly, including our precious son.

At Christmas a cousin was on a business trip to New York. She stopped an NYC firefighter, thanked him and told him eloquently about the impact their courage and sacrifice was having on young people all across this nation, including, specifically Josh. Whatever she said touched this man who had survived so much that he reached into his pocket and pulled out a small silver coin with an angel stamped on it. He turned to our cousin and said, "This angel was in my pocket that day. My Angel protected me. Give it to the kid in Texas to watch over him to do the same."

My child who had a journalism scholarship to TCU and a promised

CNN Republican Presidential Convention internship chose instead to go to Stephen F. Austin University and become a Forester with a wild land firefighting specialization. He has fought fire all over America from mountains to marshland. I am often asked how I handle the danger he is in when he is on assignment. I pray...a lot. I also know that he has an angel watching over him wherever he goes, whatever he does.

A hero is an ordinary person in extraordinary circumstances. We need to remember that. We all have the capacity to be heroic whether it is in the stairwell of a collapsing building, in a combat zone, on a medical frontline during a pandemic, in a raging wildfire, or on the streets of our hometown.

We all need an Angel in our pocket and we all need to honor and pray for those who serve us. More importantly, we all need to seek ways we can serve and to do it with humility and gratitude.

This 9/11 I continue to pray for the families who lost so much on that day whether it was at the Trade Center Towers, the Pentagon, or on a plane flown by terrorists and filled with everyday heroes. Many on 9/11 in 2001 gave their all and we honor their sacrifice and that of their families. We honor those who have fought in lands not their own for decades. We honor those who live a life of service and most humbly remember those who sacrificed all in that service.

"Greater love has no man than this..." John 15:13a May we never forget.

TxDOT announces $85 billion plan

The Texas Department of Transportation has adopted a 10-year statewide roadway construction plan with a record $85 billion price tag, officials announced last week. The Unified Transportation Plan authorizes the distribution of construction money that is expected to be available during the next decade. Within that framework, TxDOT works with elected officials and local planning organizations, as well as the public, to pick and fund the state's highest priority transportation projects.

In addition to highways the UTP addresses public transportation, aviation, rail, maritime, and freight and international trade. Many projects in the plan are highways identified on the state's 100 most congested roadways list.

"The UTP reflects a continued focus on improving transportation safety as the top priority, maintaining our current system, addressing traffic congestion, and improving statewide connectivity over the next decade," said TxDOT Commission Chairman J. Bruce Bugg, Jr.

Funding for UTP comes from "legislative and voter-approved initiatives that allocate portions of oil and gas taxes, sales taxes, and other money to the state highway fund," according to the TxDOT news release.

RRC approves final rule for gas plant weatherization

More than 18 months after Winter Storm Uri shut down much of the state's electric grid, the Texas Railroad Commission last week adopted the state's first weatherization rules requiring natural gas facilities to protect gas flow to power plants.

"These new rules ensure our state's natural gas supply chain is prepared for extreme heat and freezing cold," said RRC Chairman Wayne Christian.

"These rules will ensure that the natural gas facilities Texans rely on for reliable energy are operational when we need it most." Fines for administrative violations could reach up to $1 million.

SEPTEMBER 11 PATRIOT DAY

Make every day International Dog Day

"If there are no dogs in Heaven, then when I die I want to go where they went."

— Will Rogers

Take a look at the photo that accompanies today's essay and if you are like me, you are probably still smiling. (I will use any excuse to get a photo of Jake and Abbey into the paper).

If you are like me, you love dogs. All types and breeds. On occasion, there have been some that haven't returned my affection, but that's OK. I know it would be just a matter of time before I would win them over.

Ol' Will was spot on -- dogs are not only man's best friend but we are truly blessed to have them around.

The list of their attributes is nearly endless. They help law enforcement nab criminals, they help sight impaired folks and they calm youngsters and adults alike as therapy pets. But more than anything else, dogs have unconditional love for their humans, something most cat owners can't say. If you are a cat person, well, I just can't help you.

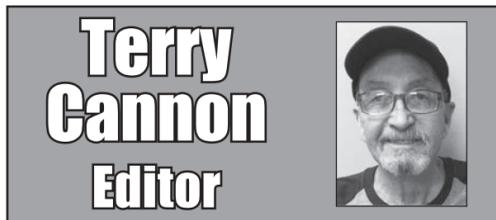

Why all the gushing about the world's pooches?

So we could mention International Dog Day, which was celebrated Aug. 26.

Founded 18 years ago by animal rescue advocate, dog trainer and author Colleen Paige, International Dog Day honors mixed and pure bred dogs but more importantly it put the spotlight on dogs needing to be rescued. My two boys each have a rescue dog, proving we did something right raising them.

Believe me, a rescued animal will soothe your soul. The two rescues in our extended human/pet family are the sweetest, kindest dogs you could ever wish for.

But before adopting, do your homework including research and your financial situation as it relates to how much you can spend on your new companion.

Since the late 1970s, dogs have been included in the Cannon household and while most have been purebreds, we've also loved several of, shall we say, mixed heritage.

The first, mixed breed Martini, can't be technically labeled a "rescue," because she was actually "liberated" from the city dog pound many decades ago. The future Lovely Bride paid a visit to the pound, coaxed this little ball of fur to the back fence and somehow smuggled her out.

I can still remember her glee in (1) showing me this adorable pup and (2) relating her skills as a bandit.

Martini supplied us with great joy but also with my favorite mutt of all time, Radar – so named because his too-big-for-his-body ears looked like a pair of radar dishes.

He was literally the town dog when we lived in Commerce. Radar followed us everywhere and waited for me outside of the bar each night when I got off work. The dog catcher, a high school friend of the Lovely Bride, liked Radar and wouldn't throw him in the hoosegow despite seeing him wander all over town.

After Radar, we settled on dachshunds (as today's photo illustrates), save for Daisy, a goofy beagle that liked to chase goats. (Don't ask. It's a long story).

After that experience, we decided doxies were our calling. We've had Woody, Hilde Jean (who along with Woody provided us with four cute puppies we hated to part with), Heidi, Scout and now Jake and Abbey.

Jake, he of the brown and grey muzzle, has been with us 16-plus years and has never met a stranger. He simply loves everyone, especially kids.

Abbey, well, she's got some serious Stranger Danger and is prone to many dachshund tendencies. She barks at anything and everything, loves treats and feels slighted when I leave the house without taking her along.

Understand, dachshunds aren't for everyone. They can be high maintenance but the rewards are sensational. You won't find a better lap dog.

When I mentioned International Dog Day to the Lovey Bride a few days ago, she just laughed.

"Every day around here is dog day," she said.

Indeed it is.

And we couldn't be happier.

Passing the dad test, Rusty style

The other day I was talkin' to a young man who had just recently started datin'.

I asked him if he wanted some datin' advice. He politely declined, but his facial expression said, "Not from you I don't."

I smiled, because when I was his age, I wouldn't have wanted advice from an old codger either. He did, however, tell me that the one thing that he didn't think he would ever get used to was meetin' the girls' parents.

He said it scared him to death. That got me to thinkin' about when I used to date and havin' to meet the parents, only I loved it. I was more anxious than scared, I think. But to tell the truth, I got along better with the mothers than the dads. I think that's because I like women better than men. I have run into a few moms that didn't care for me, but they were few and far between, but I don't think I've ever run into a dad that liked me; at least not at first. I do remember this one time...

(By the way, I've changed the names; not to protect the innocent, but to protect myself. I don't know if the man is still alive, but even if he's not, I'm pretty sure he would drag himself out of his grave and come and beat the crud out of me).

Anywho, here's what happened.

Back in high school, I asked this girl out on a date who actually said yes. Well, when I bragged to my buddies who I was goin' out with, I got the same question from each of them.

"Have you met her dad?" Then they would tell me about how badly he would grill the boy before the date. They said he had even left some of them in tears. Now, I was pretty sure that they were exaggerating, but I still was a little apprehensive.

I decided to get to the girl's house a little early in case I needed to turn on the Mitchum charm. Well, her mother answered the door and a sweeter lady you couldn't have asked for.

She invited me in and asked me to sit on the couch in their livin' room. We talked for a while and then her husband walked in. I stood and walked up to him to shake his hand.

To say he had a scowl on his face, would be an understatement. I stuck out my hand. "Hello Mr. Smith," I said. "I'm Rusty Mitchum." He looked down at my extended hand and then looked back up at me.

He didn't smile and didn't say a word. He looked over at his wife and then back at me again. Finally, he reached down and grabbed my hand. I could tell by the way he grabbed it that he was goin' to crush it if he could.

Now, I grew up in a family of firm hand shakers, so I figured I'd match him grip for grip. The more he crushed, the more I crushed back. The only difference in us was that I was smilin' and he wasn't. Finally, he let go of my hand.

Rusty Mitchum

"What do you want?" he growled.

"Your daughter," I replied. His eyes narrowed.

"What...did...you...say?" he said slowly.

"Your...daugh...ter," I replied slowly and loudly. Then he got a look of confusion on his face. Then I looked at his wife. "Is he hard of hearin'?" I asked. She smiled and ducked her head quickly.

"No!" her dad replied. "I'm not hard of hearing."

"Oh," I said. "I'm sorry, I thought maybe by the way you talked...never mind. I'm here to pick up your daughter. We have a date."

About that time his daughter walked into the room.

"Hi Rusty," she said.

"Wow!" I replied. "You look beautiful!"

"What...did...you...say?" he dad asked again. I looked at her mother.

"Are you sure he's not hard of hearin'?" I asked. Her dad took a deep breath and then let it out slowly. I could imagine him countin' to 10.

"Why do you want to take my daughter out?" he said.

"Are you kiddin'?" Look at her! Who in their right mind wouldn't?" This time he looked over at his wife, who was still lookin' at the floor smilin'. Then he looked back at me. I noticed a big ol' vein startin' to swell up on his forehead.

"Where are you taking her?" he said.

"Well, I thought I'd take her to a movie and then grab a pizza," I replied.

"I suppose you're going to take her to a drive-in movie," he said sarcastically.

"Well, I wasn't, but if you want me to..." I replied.

"No, I don't want you to!" he growled.

"Man," I said, "you're confusin' me." He put his hands up to either side of his head and started massagin' his temples. He then took in another big breath and sighed.

"What time do you want me to have her back?" I asked.

"What!" he said.

"What...time...do...you...want...me...to...have...her...back," I repeated. He looked over at his wife like he was askin' permission to kill me.

"Eleven o'clock will be fine," his wife said. "You two have a good time."

"Yes ma'am," I said and I grabbed his daughter hand and headed for the door. I took one more look at her dad. He was standin' there and his mouth was movin', but nothin' was comin' out.

"Catch you later," I said, and out the door we went.

"Wow," said the girl. "I thought he was going to have a stroke."

"So," I said. "Where to?"

"How about a drive-in?" she smiled.

"Heh, heh," I replied. "That's my girl."

ONE YEAR AGO, Sept., 2021

With just 20 seconds left in the Lindale Eagles' second game of the season, freshman kicker Seth Baggett nailed a 28-yard field goal to life his team to a 31-29 victory over the Pine Tree Pirates in Longview.

The kick was the first attempt of the season for the freshman, who was mobbed by teammates after the conversion. "He's solid," Head Coach Chris Cochran said. "He'll be able to tell that story to his grandkids. It was a good experience for him and for our team."

FIVE YEARS AGO, Sept. 14, 2017

The Lindale High School Eagles opened the home schedule with a 30-17 victory over the Forney Jackrabbits in Eagle Stadium, which was also the first win for Head Coach Chris Cochran.

Defense led the way for the Eagles, with Kollin McCartney, Justin Little and Chase Crumpton providing three turnovers for Lindale, while offensive standouts included quarterback Dillon Heinaman and running back Jordan Robinson. Other key performers for the Eagles included Colton Brown, Jake Corley and Zach Baggett.

10 YEARS AGO, Sept. 13, 2012

Lindale City Council members adopted a tax rate of .4930 per $100 property valuation for Fiscal Year compared to .49333 from the previous fiscal year.

"Even though the decrease was a fraction of a percent lower than last year we feel any time you can lower the tax rate or even if it remains the same it is a benefit to taxpayers in today's economic conditions," said City Manager Owen Scott.

He pointed out the city's appraisal values continued to rise and new businesses continue to located in the city, which helped spread the tax base which in turn helps all taxpayers, he said.

Two-year surveillance zone in place for chronic wasting disease by TP&WD

A surveillance zone covering almost 200,000 acres in Duval, Jim Wells, Live Oak and McMullen counties will be implemented for two years after feedback was received in the August meeting of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, publicity officials said.

This zone will take effect prior to the 2022-2023 hunting season and TPW commissioners will consider the resulting data presented by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department staff to assess the need for continued surveillance in the established zone.

This zone will include land between U.S. Highway 281 to the east, Farm to Market Road 624 to the north and U.S. Highway 59 to the west. The southern border follows a series of roads including County Road 101, Highway 44, County Roads 145, 172, 170, and 120.

This zone also includes the cities of Alice and Freer, as well as highways 59, 44, and 281 between the cities and the main body of the surveillance zone. This will provide a legal means for hunters to transport whole carcasses to deer-processing facilities and/or CWD check stations located in those cities rather than having to quarter the carcasses first.

As of late August 2022, 376 captive or free-ranging cervids — including white-tailed deer, mule deer, red deer and elk — in 15 Texas counties have tested positive for CWD.

First recognized in 1967 in captive mule deer in Colorado, CWD has since been documented in captive and/or free-ranging deer in 30 states and three Canadian provinces.

Testing for CWD allows wildlife biologists to get a clearer picture of the presence of the disease statewide. Proactive monitoring improves the state's response time to a CWD detection and can greatly reduce the risk of the disease spreading to neighboring captive and free-ranging deer populations.

Hunters outside of established surveillance and containment zones are encouraged to voluntarily submit their harvest for testing at a check station for free before heading home from the field. A map of TPWD check stations can be found on the TPWD website.

CWD is a fatal neurological disease found in certain cervids, including deer, elk, moose and other members of the deer family. The disease is highly contagious, never goes dormant and can remain infectious on the landscape for several years.

If left unmanaged, CWD can have long-term impacts on the native deer herd and local economies. Symptoms may not become evident until long after animals have become infected, so testing is the best tool available for detecting CWD at the earliest stage of infection possible and containing it with appropriate management strategies. Clinical signs may include progressive weight loss, stumbling or tremors with a lack of coordination, excessive thirst, salivation or urination, loss of appetite, teeth grinding, abnormal head posture and/or drooping ears.

To date there is no evidence that CWD poses a risk to humans or non-cervids. However, as a precaution, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and the World Health Organization recommend against consuming meat from infected animals.

St. Vincent de Paul Society offers prescription relief for those in need

What would you do, if you could only afford one: groceries for the week, or your heart disease medication?

Unfortunately, with rising inflation, job loss, lack of insurance, this is a situation more and more individuals find themselves in today.

The North Texas St. Vincent de Paul Society (SVdP) offers prescription relief in the form of heavily discounted options for families and individuals in need.

The SVdP Pharmacy, a freestanding charitable pharmacy in Dallas, Texas, also provides free medication to patients in need who meet the following criteria:

Have proof of residence in the state of Texas

Have no health insurance coverage
Have a valid prescription.

Have a household income at or below 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level

There is a helpful online reference chart from the Department of Human Services to help determine the income eligibility; for example, a family of 4 without insurance earning under $83,250 would be eligible.

In its 4th year, the SVdP Pharmacy has helped more than 270,000 Texas residents. Located at 5750 Pineland Drive, Suite 280 in Dallas, prescription referrals can be processed and delivered by US Mail directly to a patient's residence.

St. Vincent de Paul offers assistance without regard to race, gender, creed or national origin. Assistance can be obtained by calling (469) 232-9902, Monday – Friday - 8:30am – 4:30pm; or by completing the on line application located at <https://svdpdallas.org/pharmacy-patient-eligibility/>. To become eligible, all that is needed are:

-- Proof of residence
-- Proof of income

If you have no income, or someone helps to support you, a Hardship Referral Letter is available online to meet the proof of income requirement.

The program has been featured on CBS DFW (available at <https://www.cbsnews.com/dfw/video/charitable-pharmacy-supplying-those-in-need-amid-price-increase-for-hundreds-of-medications/#x>).

"This is a tremendous service to our community, and the success thus far has been meeting the need, with prescriptions filled for some of the most vulnerable in our society," said W. Stephen Love, President, DFW Hospital Council

Your local St. Vincent de Paul Society here in Lindale, encourages residents to take advantage of this service and to tell others about it, especially if you are aware of those in need.

Smith County commissioners honor long time employees

By Casey Murphy
Smith County Public
Information Officer

Lois Mosley was honored during Commissioners Court Tuesday (Aug. 30) for 25 years of service with the Smith County Tax Office.

"Lois is the spirit and the life of our office," Tax Assessor-Collector Gary Barber said. "She brightens your day."

Mosley started working at the front counter in the Tax Office in 1997, and also served as research clerk and property tax supervisor before becoming Barber's administrative assistant.

"I love working with people and the people I work with," she said. "I enjoy helping the citizens of Smith County whenever needed. I am truly blessed to be a part of Smith County."

Barber called Mosley a loyal and dedicated employee who has put up with him for 17 years.

"It's been an honor," he said. "There's nobody with a bigger heart."

20 YEARS

Terry Cockrum was recognized for 20 years of service as Court Coordinator of the 7th District Court.

Cockrum began working for 7th District Judge Kerry Russell when he was an attorney in private practice, in 1985. When he became District Judge in 2002, she went with him to become the Court Coordinator.

"After 20 years, I still love my job and coming to work every day," Cockrum said. "The people I have met over these years, my coworkers and Smith County employees are the best part of this job. It would be sad to think if our paths had never crossed. I hope that the attorneys in our community and the public feel that the Court is accessible to them when they have questions or need settings."

Smith County Judge Nathaniel Moran read a letter written by Russell, who was unable to attend Commissioners Court for the recognition.

"The picture of integrity, Terry is a hard worker and a self-starter," Russell wrote. "She often performs the work of two people and does not complain about the overload. She does whatever it takes to get the assigned job completed in a superior way."

10 YEARS

Precinct 3 Constable Jimmie Blackmon was honored for 10 years of service to Smith County.

"I want to congratulate Jimmie on his 10 years," said Precinct 2 Commissioner Cary Nix, who serves the same area of the County. "He's a pleasure to work with."

Nix said he can call him at any time for help and he will help take care of it.

Since 2012, Blackmon has served Precinct 3, which covers the Southeast portion of Smith County, including Chapel Hill, Arp, Troup, Whitehouse and areas of Tyler.

Blackmon was born in Charleston, South Carolina, and at an early age moved to Texas when his father retired from the military. He has lived in Smith County for more than 40 years and graduated from Chapel Hill High School and Tyler Junior College, where he received an associate's degree in criminal justice.

In 2002, he was issued his basic peace officer license from the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards. Since then, he has also earned his intermediate, advanced and his master peace officer licenses.

Precinct 3 Deputy Constable James Stewart was also honored for 10 years of service.

"It's been a pleasure to have him work for us," Blackmon said. "Thank you for all of your service and dedication to the County."

Stewart worked for the County for five years before going to work for Blackmon, so he has a total of 15 years of service to Smith County.

5 YEARS

Marieliza Martinez was recognized for her five-year anniversary with the District Attorney's Office.

She began as a legal assistant in the misdemeanor division and is now serving as the grand jury coordinator, which District Attorney Jacob Putman said is a big job.

"She's fantastic, is always pleasant and encourages people in the office ...," he said.

Meghan Willis was recognized for five years with the District Clerk's Office.

District Clerk Penny Clarkston said Ms. Willis is a wonderful employee who is dedicated and hardworking and is a role model for all young women. She thanked her for her commitment to her office and to the citizens of Smith County.

Other County employees who are celebrating work anniversaries but who were not in Commissioners Court include:

20 Years: Jeri Lynn Scott, Sheriff's Office

15 Years: Michael Franklin,

Road and Bridge; Tony Walker, Juvenile Services

10 Years: Velma Medina and Adrienne White, Sheriff's Office

5 Years: Patty Flowers, Sheriff's Office; Richard Vance Jr, District Attorney's Office

Athens, Lindale only winners from week No. 2 in district

The winners list for District 9-4A teams from week No. 2 was short after action was completed this past Friday.

Lindale, now 1-1 on the season and Athens, now 2-0, were the only teams happy on Saturday.

Previously top 10-ranked Chapel Hill and Kilgore each lost for the second week in a row, as did Palestine, Jacksonville and Henderson.

Lindale clipped Pine Tree, 40-17 while Athens routed Waxahachie Life 48-18.

Chapel Hill fell to Van, 23-17 and Kilgore was taken down by Gilmer, 40-26.

Against Gilmer, Kilgore owned a 7-0 lead going into the second period, but Gilmer scored three times to take a 21-12 advantage to the half time locker room. The Bulldogs closed to within 28-26 by the end of the third, but the Buckeyes scored two more touchdowns to put the game away.

Meanwhile in Van, things were a bit closer for Chapel Hill in its game with the Vandals, who are Lindale's opponent this week.

The Bulldogs trailed 9-3 at the half and built a 17-16 lead going into the fourth period. But with just over seven minutes remaining, Van's Demarcus Stinnett sprinted in from 25 yards out for the winning touchdown.

Palestine, hosting Jasper, jumped out to a 22-0 lead after the first quarter but Jasper scored 20 points in the second period to trim the margin to 22-20 at the half. In the third, the Bulldogs went ahead 28-22 on a Kiotti Armstrong 9-yard touchdown reception.

Henderson hosted Hallsville and the Bobcats jumped out to a 28-14 lead at the half and coasted to the win.

Whitehouse had little trouble subduing the Indians in Jacksonville, as the Wildcats built a 40-14 lead at the half and cruised to the 54-21 win.

This week, Kilgore will host Pine Tree, Chapel Hill welcomes Greenville, Palestine will be at home against Livingston, Athens travels to Rusk, Henderson will be on the road in Marshall and Jacksonville will welcome Crandall to the Tomato Bowl.

Lindale Prospects baseball team captures Back to School Bash title

The Lindale Prospects 15U baseball team, comprised of 8th and 9th graders, took top honors at the Back to School Bash in Chandler during the weekend of Aug. 27-28.

Lindale defeated Gilmer, 5-0 and Athens, 9-8 in Saturday's pool games and on Sunday, defeated Alliance 6-3 to advance to the championship game against Gilmer. Hayden Gateley stole home to secure the 1-0 title victory.

Kaden Adams and Daxton Derfelt each tossed shutouts in the two wins over Gilmer, each pitching five innings and allowing just five hits. They combined to strike out 15.

Gateley added a win on Sunday facing 16 batters, allowing three runs on two hits and striking out 5.

Drew Meier and Isaac Rodgers combined their efforts on the mound, keeping Athens from taking the lead in that Saturday game.

Amarcrinum love the hot Texas weather

By Anne Pattullo
Smith County Master Gardener

As I write this it is nearly 100 degrees and has been for about three weeks now.

This is the weather my amarcrinum loves and what it needs to bring it into glorious bloom.

The amarcrinum is actually a cross between our familiar old Southern standard, the crinum lily, and a related bulb from South Africa, Amaryllis belladonna. The most common one is named 'Fred Howard' and has white throated delicate pink lily-like flowers.

It will usually start blooming in mid-July, surprising me with rapidly emerging 2-foot stalks, each with at least 6 and up to sixteen flower buds. These stalks keep coming, one or two at a time, up until the first frost.

The foliage is much like that of a crinum but stays neater, forming a clump of 2-inch-wide strap-like leaves, which in a mild winter, will stay green.

The last two winters, especially the Snowmageddon year of 2021, took my amarcrinum to the ground but did not kill the bulb. It came back more slowly than usual but by late July was blooming once again.

If you want a dependable flower that thrives in our heat and sun, give the amarcrinum a try.

They love our sandy soils in East Texas. We have them in our From Bulbs to Blooms plant sale which goes online October 3rd and wraps up with an onsite sale Oct. 15 at Pollard United Methodist Church, 3030 New Copeland Road, Tyler.

I love most all bulbs, but the amarcrinum can't be beat for dependable showy blooms that continue from July to November.

The Smith County Master Gardener program is a volunteer organization in connection with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service.

East Texas Red Cross chapter urges residents to be ready for disasters

Officials with the East Texas chapter of the American Red Cross are urging residents to do what they can to be ready in case of severe weather events.

September is National Preparedness Month, and Karen Holt, executive director the East Texas Red Cross Chapter, there are steps East Texans can take to ensure their safety.

"Personal preparedness is more important now than ever before," said Holt. "With the increasing number of natural disasters, East Texans need to be prepared for an emergency."

She said in 2021, more than 40 percent of Americans lived in counties struck by climate-related disasters, according to published reports.

Keeping your family secure, Holt said, is a matter of following some simple guidelines.

Three simple steps can help to keep your family safe during disasters: Get a kit, make a plan and be informed.

Build your emergency kit with a gallon of water per person, per day, non-perishable food, a flashlight and a battery-powered radio. Also include a first aid kit, medications, supplies for infants or pets, a multi-purpose tool and personal hygiene items.

And don't forget to add copies of important papers, cell phone chargers, blankets, maps of the area and emergency contact information.

Plan what to do in case you are separated from your family during an emergency and what to do if you have to evacuate. Make sure to coordinate your plan with your child's school, your work and your community's emergency plans.

Stay informed by finding out what emergency situations may occur where you live, work and go to school, how local officials will contact you during a disaster and how you will get important information, such as evacuation orders.

Include your pets in your emergency plans. Remember, if you and your family need to evacuate, so does your pet. It's important to plan in advance to know which pet-friendly hotels are in your area, and where your pets can stay in an emergency situation.

Take any special considerations into account as part of your emergency planning. Older adults or people with mobility, hearing, learning or seeing disabilities may need to create a support network of people that can help during an emergency. Create a plan that takes into account your capabilities, any help you may need and who can provide it, especially if you need to evacuate or if the power goes out for several days.

There are things you can do to help your community get prepared. "Be ready to not only help your loved ones, but your neighbors too," said Holt. "You can volunteer or take a class and learn lifesaving skills."

Red Cross volunteers play critical roles in their local communities. Join us as a Disaster Action Team volunteer to ensure that families don't have to face tough times alone.

Learn lifesaving skills so you can help people in a crisis until medical professionals arrive. Sign up for a first aid, CPR or other classes available online or in-person.

The Red Cross also needs more volunteers to help people affected by disasters.

To join the volunteer corps by going to redcross.org/volunteer to sign up.
