EAGLES BACK IN PLAYOFFS

Bi district round begins
For Lindale against Vidor
By Terry Cannon
Editor

For the fifth year in a row, Lindale Head Football Coach Chris Cochran has led his Eagles into the postseason and this year's opponent and venue are familiar.

Bi District Playoffs
Vidor vs. Lindale
7:30 p.m. Friday
Merrill-Green Stadium, Bryan

Lindale will take on Vidor at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Bryan's Merrill-Green Stadium. Two years ago, the Eagles played Vidor, but the game was in Carthage. The following week, Lindale – which eventually made it to the state title game – took on Needville in Bryan.

While there may be some similarities, there have been two years' worth of changes in the two teams and Cochran and his staff have been busy prepping for a Pirate squad that finished second behind Lumberton in District 10-4A.

"They are different in some ways from when we last played them," Cochran said about the Pirates. "On offense, they are better and it's still going to be hard to defend the Slot T. They execute it well."

Cochran did note one similarity from the team's previous meeting.

"Everyone I've talked with said they still play hard," he said. "They tackle well and they are tough. It's a nerve-wracking team to prepare for."

On the flip side of that coin, the Pirates must contend with an Eagle team led by its tough-as-boot-leather quarterback Clint Thurman, a junior that has accumulated 2,739 total yards. He's completed 111 of 199 attempts for 18 touchdowns and rushed for 1,218 yards on 164 carries with 13 scores.

"He's an absolute joy to coach and the type of player you want as the leader of your team," Cochran said. "We're very happy we have him for another year."

While Thurman is the focal point, Cochran is pleased with how the coaching staff has managed to spread the ball around enough to keep opposing defenses off balance.

"Our offensive staff has created a system that the other team doesn't know who will be getting the ball on any particular play," he said.

On the defensive side of the ball, the Eagles have been led by the steady play of linebacker Ryan Stanton who has 80 tackles on the year, followed by Wyatt Parker with 59 tackles.

This past week, Lindale enjoyed its bye week while Vidor was bouncing Splendora, 34-7, at home.

The Pirates' lone district defeat came to 9-1 Lumberton, 47-21, on Oct. 14 in Lumberton.

Elsewhere in District 9-4A, No. 1 seed Chapel Hill (8-2 on the year) takes on Livingston (4-6) in bi district on Thursday (Nov. 10) while No. 2 seed Kilgore (8-2) will play Little Cyprus-Mauriceville (6-4) on Friday.

Palestine (4-6), the No. 4 seed in District 9-4A, plays Lumberton (9-1) on Thursday.

LHS "Pride of Lindale" Band wins third straight state championship

The Lindale High School's "Pride of Lindale" Band has earned a state title for the third consecutive year after winning the UIL State Military Marching Band Championship this past week at McLane Stadium in Waco, Lindale ISD publicity officials announced.

"We are so proud of our Eagle Band program," said Superintendent Stan Surratt. "Band director Steven Moore and his directors have certainly built one of the best band programs in the state. As a superintendent, I just could not be prouder of this group of musicians. Three-peat State Champions -- it's going to be tough to top that. The Pride of Lindale has made the entire community proud."

There are 222 students currently in the Lindale High School Band. The Lindale Band also recently received a division 1 sweepstakes award at the region 21 marching contest for the 48th consecutive year.

This set the stage for the band to compete at the State event. The band program has been practicing for this competition since August.

"I am so thankful to get the opportunity to work with the young men and women of the Lindale Band," said Lindale Band Director Steven Moore. "They are the best and I am so proud of them. I also want to thank my staff, Susan Scott, Weston Fisher, Nick Kelley, Melissa Fisher, Casey Johnson, Taylor Bates and student teacher Gavin Clarke. They are amazing at what they do and I am thankful to call them colleagues and friends. Finally, thank you to the Lindale community, Lindale Band Boosters and band parents, the LISD Board of Trustees, LISD staff and administrators Stan Surratt, Jeremy Chilek, and Jamie Holder for all of their support."

This is the third year that the UIL has had a separate Military and Open Style State Marching Band Championship. It allows both styles to be judged based upon criteria specific to each style.

Commissioners OK ARPA funds for Winona

By Casey Murphy
Smith County Public
Information Officer

The Smith County Commissioners Court on Tuesday (Nov. 1) approved an agreement with the city of Winona and the East Texas Municipal Utility District to pay for a nearly $3.7 million water/sewer project with American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding.

The project will help fix a "significant" water/sewer issue for Northeast Smith County residents.

Smith County was allocated more than $45 million in ARPA funds by the federal government, intended as relief funding from the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting economic downturn.

Commissioners have held workshops to discuss water/sewer projects in rural areas, as well as other needed projects and have considered benefit-to-cost ratio and their long-term impact to the community.

During their Oct. 3 meeting, commissioners approved the city of Lindale's request for $897,325, for a lift station, force main, and related improvements for its Business Park on Interstate 20 to open up commercial and residential development in and around that area in north western Smith County.

City of Winona officials presented a request for the funds during an October meeting of the commissioners. The project would be undertaken through a partnership with East Texas Municipal Utility District.

Approving the agreement on Tuesday paved the way for Smith County to use $3,677,516 of its ARPA funding for the project.

"I couldn't think of a better way to spend ARPA funds than this project," said Commissioner Terry Phillips, who serves Precinct 3, which includes the Winona area.

Phillips said the project will help the entire City of Winona, but also one of Smith County's large hospitals – UT Health Northeast, off of U.S. Highway 271 North – with its ongoing water/sewer issues.

The city of Winona has struggled with TCEQ compliance for wastewater discharge for more than 10 years and has been fined more than

Its inability to maintain TCEQ wastewater treatment compliance could slow or halt the economic growth and ability to receive funding in the future, according to a previous presentation by Lane Thompson, of ETMUD.

"I was convinced that this was the last water/sewer project that

Council sends Highway 16 zoning matter back to P&Z

Lindale City Council members addressed two zoning matters Tuesday night (Nov. 1) at city hall, with one being revisited after being tabled from the Oct. 25 meeting.

During that October meeting city resident Daryn Hanley had requested a rezoning of approximately 1.3 acres on East Hubbard Street from single family residential to mixed use district.

At the previous meeting three people spoke about the rezoning matter during the public hearing prior to council action.

After hearing the comments at that time, Place 5 Councilman Gavin Rasco made a motion to table the issue to provide more time for consideration. Tuesday night, Rasco made a motion to send the matter back to the Planning and Zoning Commission to revisit the zoning classification.

This passed unanimously.

Mayor Jeff Daugherty said, in his opinion since Hubbard Street — Highway 16 — will likely be expanded in the future to do anything now would have to be revisited in the future.

"I think, as mayor, we need to do all we can to protect our residential areas," Daugherty said.

The other zoning ordinance involved approximately 94 acres on County Road 474 from single family residential to mixed use district.

Steven Lloyd, city director of building and planning, told the council this issue has been before the P&Z for several months and different plans are in the works for the land.

CR 474 is also known as Brickyard Road. The next step in the process, Lloyd said, would be formulating plats for the land.

That vote was also unanimous following a public hearing. In other action, the council:

- Approved the 2022 city tax roll;
- Requested for qualification for the master plan for Faulkner Park, per a request from the city's Park Board, said City Manager Carolyn Caldwell.
- Voted to name baseball field No. 4 Kizer Field, following a request from the parks board and the Lindale Baseball and Softball Association.

OPINION/COMMENTARY

THE FIRST AMENDMENT: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of all the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Lagacy...

The caps were set at a jaunty angle. The grins were generated by a depth of friendship that only brothers in arms know. Their stories are buried in graves across this nation. The sailor on the right is my dad.

And yes, he will always be my hero.

He showed me sea shells and artillery shells from the South Pacific. He told me stories of the Southern Cross. He told me about swimming in shark infested waters to rig a movie screen between two ships. He laughed when he showed me his little souvenirs and told me those stories.

When he told me about his best friend who lagged behind when told to divide into two groups he cried. His friend was sent to another ship. That ship was lost in combat. He told me about a Japanese Wolfpack circling his ship which was sitting high in the water so the Japanese didn't expend the last of their torpedos on a ship with little fuel in the waning days of WWII.

He said he sat behind his gun and sweated...and prayed... and thought of home. After all, one of the greatest tragedies of war is to lose one's life in the closing days of conflict... deaths that seem almost meaningless with a cost that rips holes in hearts and families. He told me of the time he begged his superior officer to let him shoot down a Zero and the officer kept yelling "Hold Brownie!" And he obeyed. He told me he shouldn't have. It would have been worth the discipline against him if he had shot down the Kamikaze pilot who flew into a battleship. He regretted following that order to his dying day.

Dad was 17 when he joined. He was in the South Pacific when the war ended. He was a part of rounding up all the Japanese families that had been planted on islands throughout the Pacific. He said he gave every bar of chocolate he had to the children behind the wire fence. One child's parents, in gratitude for his kindness gave him a sake dish which he gave to me. It is one of my most cherished possessions.

The Best of Suzanne Bardwell

The story of his drunk captain running their PC boat into a pier and knocking a huge hole in the side was hilarious. The officers and men were afraid they would be dry docked and they were scheduled to leave for California. So, they painted mattresses gray, stuffed the hole, closed off the compartment, and headed across a very big ocean in a leaky boat home.

Home is what he thought of most. I have his letters to his grandparents. He never told them, or me, the stories of combat and horror. That is what set that generation apart. They held their stories that might frighten or hurt their families somewhere deep inside.

Then they came home and rebuilt their lives, the American economy and through support of American policy the rest of much of the wartorn world.

Today, we need to look closely at the stories of sacrifice of all our veterans. We need to turn our vision outward and build on what those veterans' sacrifices have given us to create a better world.

Their legacy deserves it. Many of them showed us how. We just have to do it.

This little Texan became larger than life

For proof that heroes come in all shapes and sizes, look no further than the diminutive Audie Murphy, a Hunt County native whose astonishing World War II exploits are well worth revisiting on Veteran's Day.

At a puny 112 pounds stretched over a 5-foot, 5 1/2 inch frame at the time of his enlistment, Murphy became one of the most decorated soldiers in American history and was a nightmare for the Nazis from 1943 to 1945.

By the time the war ended, Murphy had earned every citation for valor available from the Army, including the Medal of Honor. France and Belgium also honored him for his heroism.

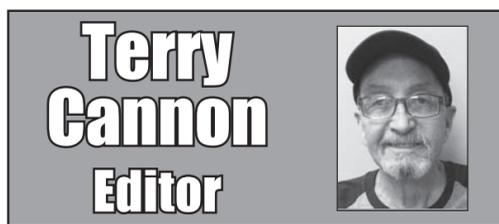

At the ripe age of 19, Murphy performed one of the most remarkable feats of the war, single-handedly holding off a German company for over an hour at the Colmar Pocket in France in January, 1945. Wounded and out of ammunition, he then led a successful counterattack.

For this, he earned his Medal of Honor.

However, as is sadly the case for countless veterans who have given more than humanly possible to keep our country free, the war took a vicious toll on Murphy.

As remarkable as his military legacy was the fact that he was able to become a soldier at all is even more impressive.

The son of sharecroppers, he was born in Kingston,

Texas, a few miles north of Greenville on June 20, 1925. Murphy had 11 siblings, not an uncommon thing in those days. The more bodies to work the land, the more money for the family.

Despite having so many brothers and sisters, he preferred to be alone and when not working the land, he roamed the woods with his rifle. He was so proficient with a gun that later when his father left the family for good, Murphy's shooting skills provided food for his family.

In order to further help his family financially, Murphy quit school in the fifth grade to pick cotton and work other jobs.

And like many other Americans, his world changed on Dec. 7, 1941 after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Only 16 at the time, he was determined to serve his country. His sister helped him forge his birthdate on the enlistment forms but he was initially turned down for being underweight. However, his persistence paid off and was finally able to join the Army.

He underwent basic training at Camp Wolters in Texas and even though earning marksman's badges and other commendations, his company commander felt he was still too small for service and wanted to make him a cook.

Again, Murphy persevered and eventually was sent to Fort Meade in Maryland for advanced training with the 76th Infantry Division.

In 1943, Murphy took part in the invasion of Sicily and in 1944, he fought in the Battle of Anzio, helped liberate Rome and eventually made his way to France where he continued to add to a sterling military career.

After the war, his life changed once more.

The bigwigs in Hollywood know a thing or two about star power and it didn't take them long to recognize the photogenic Murphy had "it."

James Cagney was mainly responsible for bringing the little Texan to Hollywood, and his production company provided acting and dancing lessons, but it took several films before his star began to shine.

In 1948, he made his first film, a bit of fluff titled "Texas, Brooklyn and Heaven" from United Artists. He played a copy boy.

Next was a film with megastar Alan Ladd called "Beyond Glory," and while he didn't get a lot of screen time, Murphy was obviously making an impression. He received top billing in his third film "Bad Boy," in which he played a juvenile delinquent.

Several more forgettable films followed until he made "The Red Badge of Courage," directed by John Huston from the Stephen Crane novel. It didn't make much money, but the critics were impressed.

However, he's probably best remembered for a string of westerns as well as playing himself in 1955's "To Hell and Back," which was based on his autobiography.

His Hollywood career didn't make him a rich man and as a result of his horrific wartime experiences, he suffered from what would be known today as post traumatic stress disorder. He became addicted to sleeping pills and kept a loaded handgun under his pillow.

He died in a plane crash in May, 1971 near Roanoke, Va.

With another Veteran's Day upon us, it's incumbent on all Americans to understand that while our military heroes may be flawed, it is entirely possible that the steep price they paid to ensure our freedom is the very thing that created their despair.

We should continue to honor these patriots, not just one day a year, but each and every day.

ONE YEAR AGO, Nov. 11, 2021

The Smith County Commissioners Court voted unanimously Tuesday, Nov. 2, to adopt the final redistricting plan that establishes new boundaries for the County Commissioners Court Precinct lines based on the 2020 Census data, said Public Information Officer Casey Murphy.

After holding two workshops and three public hearings, in which the Commissioners Court discussed several options, the court agreed with the new boundaries that will affect only the Commissioners Court precinct lines.

It will not affect the precinct lines for constables or justices of the peace. The court worked with the law firm Bickerstaff Heath Delgado Acosta, LLP, of Austin, to help them through the Constitutionally-mandated redistricting process.

The plan includes changes in Commissioner Precinct boundary lines on the west and east sides of Smith County and leaves the County with an 8.04 percent deviation from the largest populated precinct to the smallest.

FIVE YEARS AGO, Nov. 9, 2017

Lindale High School's Lady Eagles volleyball team captured the bi-district championship against Temple but fell in the area round against Wills Point to conclude another successful volleyball season.

The Lady Eagles defeated Temple, 25-13, 25-17, 16-25 and 25-19, led by Brina Kuslak with 10 kills and three blocks; Shelbi Steen with 10 kills and 10 digs and London Rue with nine kills. Setter Harleigh Thurman had 25 assists and Kalaya Pierce added 13 assists.

10 YEARS AGO, Nov. 10, 2012

The Lindale High School Speech and Debate team traveled to John Tyler High School and brought home several top finishes after competing against 20 schools from East Texas and the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Randall Oliver and Savannah Williamson took first in Public Forum Debate, with Oliver also taking top speaker honors.

Oliver also won first in oratory and fifth in informative speaking while Braden Root was third in prose and sixth in oratory.

Fate Richey was sixth in poetry and Peyton Cooley was third in novice Lincoln-Douglas debate and Esther Crosby was fourth in novice LD.

Brooklyn Van Winkle was fifth in novice LD and won top speaker honors.

Double teaming the phone creature

It's been a while since I've spoken to any phone creatures, and I was gettin' a little bit worried that I was gonna lose my touch if I didn't get a call pretty soon.

I even considered callin' somebody up and messin' with them, just to keep in practice. But, lo and behold, one called the other night.

Phone creatures, for you out there who haven't been readin' this junk I write, are what I call those irritatin' telephone solicitors. I like to mess with 'em. I think it's only fair since they're disturbin' me. Anywho, like I said, one called the other night.

"Yellow," I said into the receiver. Nobody answered. "Yellow!" I said louder. Then I heard that faint click that lets you know it's a phone creature.

"May I speak to Mr. Mitchum please," the creature said.

"Which Mr. Mitchum?" I asked.

"The home owner," came the reply.

"Well, we both own the house," I said.

"Either one then," he said.

"Well, we're both here," I said.

"Yeah, we're both here," I said again.

"Are you both on different phones?" the creature asked.

"No," I replied. "We're on the same phone."

"Well, I just need to talk to one of you."

"Tough," I said. "You ain't got a choice. You see we're Siamese twins."

"You're kidding," he said.

"I wish I was," I said.

"You wish you was," I said again.

"Don't pay no attention to him," I said. He ain't right bright, you know."

"Are you sayin' I'm stupid?" I said

"Like I said," I repeated.

"Don't pay no attention to him. We only have one brain, and I'm the only one that uses it."

"Yeah right," I said.

"You only have one brain?" the creature asked.

"Yeah, and it's a pain, too. All he wants to do is think about girls."

"What's wrong with girls?"

"Ain't nothin' wrong with girls, but I'm married, and I can't have them thoughts bouncin' around in our head."

"Hey, I can't help it if you were stupid enough to tie the knot."

"Only one of you is married?" the creature asked.

"Yeah," I said. "He's too ugly to find a wife."

"Ugly," I said. "Look who's talkin'. He's got so many zits if he smiles you better duck."

"Oh yeah," I said. "Well you're so ugly, mom had to tie bacon around your neck just so's the dog would play with you."

"Wow," said the creature.

"It must be a real challenge for you."

"Which you?" I said.

"Well both of you," he replied.

"Sometimes," I said. "But it does have its good points, too. Like when we eat watermelon. I eat the melon, and he spits out the seeds."

"You're kidding, right?" said the creature.

"No, he ain't kiddin'," I said. "Heck, I smoke cigars and inhale, and he blows out the smoke."

"What do you do for a livin'?" asked the creature.

"I used to be a lineman for the telephone company," I said. "But, havin' to haul fatty up the pole with me got to be a chore."

"Fatty?" I said. "Who you callin' fatty?"

"You know that song, 'He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother'?" I said to the creature.

"Well, that's a bunch of bunk. He's heavy."

"It's a gland problem," I said.

"Yeah, you're full of big fat glands."

"Uh gentlemen," the creature said.

"Yeah," I answered.

"Yes," I also answered.

"I almost forgot the reason I called. I'm with the Nielson Rating Company and we would like for you to participate in our television rating survey."

"Can't," I said.

"He's right," I also said.

"We ain't got no TV."

"You don't have a TV?"

"That's what he said, ain't it?"

"We threw out our TV. Me and my wife wanted to watch normal shows, and he was always wantin' to watch 'Baywatch'."

"I was interested in becomin' a life guard," I said.

"Yeah, you'd look more like a beached whale in a Speedo," I said.

"You're just jealous of my physique," I said.

"Yeah right," I said. "Your six pack has done turned into a keg."

"Uh gentlemen," said the Creature.

"Yeah?" I said.
"What?" I also said.
"I guess since you don't have a television, there is no need to bother you further."

"You ain't botherin' me."
"You are me."
"Shut up."

"You shut up."
"No, you shut up." Then I heard the creature hang up.

I was smilin' to myself as I hung up the phone. I turned and there, as always, was my sweet little wife.

"What?" I said.

"Nothing," she said. "I was just thinking that it is possible that you once had an attached twin."

"What?" I said. "What makes you say that?"

"Well it's obvious," she said. "I got the one without the brain."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Responsible citizens should "do their homework"

Dear Editor,
"What if the world ran like Facebook? Or a television reality show? Maybe it already does."

That's a leading quote from a past editorial (written sometime in the past) by a former co-publisher of the Lindale News and Times, Suzanne Bardwell.

Her answer to that question was, "Maybe it already does. The question is should we do something about it? I vote a resounding YES) and that sounds frightening in and of itself."

She then said, "citizens could vote up or down arrows much like Facebook's 'likes' and everyone has access to public videos because of smart phone cameras.

It's beginning to hit awfully close to home isn't it?"

Like she said, "Our culture has (d) evolved into opinion-based rather than fact-based. And that is fine if we are talking about music or art, but policy and the legal code? Not so much." The answer to that now is, "Not at all."

She next said, "but let's get to the heart of the matter, "We the people. . . ." as a majority just aren't that interested in doing the work to be informed. Whether it is ensuring we understand the amendments we are voting on for the Texas Constitution or ensuring we understand fully where politicians stand on matters of global or personal impact. And we often personally embrace politicians who wave their religious beliefs like a banner that covers all their political sins. Most of us just don't want to do the work necessary to be informed.

She continued, "so what can we do? We educate ourselves on candidates, issues, events, policy, and long-term impact. And that education must be based on facts, backgrounding and context. We have to care enough to put the work in. You might be surprised to discover that what you believe to be true is based on image, emotion, and rhetoric, not fact."

She concluded, "Let's see what we could do to keep this great republic going for another 241 years. And that means we are going to have to do our homework."

Do your homework!!!

County's vacant building damaged by storm

Smith County's vacant building on Line Street, in downtown Tyler, was heavily damaged in last Friday's storms, said County Public Information Officer Casey Murphy.

Crews from Smith County Road and Bridge and Facility Services Departments were at work earlier this week clearing the debris at 218 E. Line St.. The parking lot and front entrance of the Adult Probation building across the street is closed.

Smith County is planning on having the brick building demolished as soon as possible. Appointments at Adult Probation have been temporarily postponed.

Florida woman indicted on fed money laundering charges

A 37-year-old Florida woman has been indicted in a cryptocurrency money laundering scheme in the Eastern District of Texas, said Davilyn Walston, publicity spokesperson for U.S. Attorney Brit Featherston.

Sharena Seay, of Jacksonville, Fla., was named in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury, charging her with money laundering. She was arraigned in federal court by U.S. Magistrate Judge John D. Love.

According to the indictment, Seay is alleged to have laundered the proceeds of her drug trafficking operations through cryptocurrency. The defendant allegedly supplied alpha-Pyrrolidinopentiophenone (alpha-PVP), which is often called "flakka," and similar synthetic cathinones, such as Eutylone or alpha-PiHP.

Seay distributed alpha-PVP and other controlled substances to various customers across the United States. Customers who purchased controlled substances from Seay paid for their purchases with cash. Seay laundered the cash proceeds through cryptocurrency in order to purchase more controlled substances on the dark web and to conceal her criminal activity.

During the course of the conspiracy, Seay allegedly laundered more than $1.2 million.

On Aug. 17, 2022, a federal grand jury in the Eastern District of Texas returned a five-count indictment charging Seay with money laundering and aiding and abetting.

If convicted, Seay faces up to 20 years in federal prison on each charge. A grand jury indictment is not evidence of guilt. A defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt in a court of law.

This effort is part of an Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Forces (OCDETF) operation. OCDETF identifies, disrupts, and dismantles the highest-level criminal organizations that threaten the United States using a prosecutor-led, intelligence-driven, multi-agency approach. Additional information about the OCDETF Program can be found at <https://www.justice.gov/OCDETF>.

This case is being investigated by the U.S. Secret Service and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service and is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Nathaniel C. Kummerfeld.

Denton County man pleads guilty to child pornography charges

A Denton County man has pleaded guilty to federal child pornography violations in the Eastern District of Texas, said Davilyn Walston, spokesperson for U.S. Attorney Brit Featherston.

James Buck Briggs, 48, of The Colony, pleaded guilty to two counts of distributing child pornography today before U.S. District Judge Amos Mazzant.

Briggs entered his guilty plea during his federal trial on the charges.

According to public information, in December 2021, an undercover law enforcement officer encountered Briggs in an online chat room dedicated to the sexual abuse of children.

Briggs and the undercover officer began a chat which resulted in Briggs sending the officer a video depicting child pornography involving a very young female victim. The undercover officer was able to trace the IP address to Briggs' residence in The Colony and a search warrant was executed. A search of Briggs' cellular phone revealed hundreds of images which contained child pornography. Briggs was indicted by a federal grand jury on Jan. 20, 2022.

Briggs faces up to 20 years in federal prison for each count at sentencing. The maximum statutory sentence prescribed by Congress is provided here for information purposes, as the sentencing will be determined by the court based on the advisory sentencing guidelines and other statutory factors. A sentencing hearing will be scheduled after the completion of a presentence investigation by the U.S. Probation Office.

This case is part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse.

Led by U.S. Attorneys' Offices and the Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (CEOS), Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state and local resources to better locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the Internet, as well as to identify and rescue victims. For more information about Project Safe Childhood, visit www.justice.gov/psc.

This case is being investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Frisco Field Office and the Plano Police Department. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorneys Lesley Brooks and Maureen Smith.

Southeast Texas men plead guilty to federal drug trafficking charges

Two Southeast Texas men have pleaded guilty to federal drug trafficking violations in the Eastern District of Texas, Walston said.

Arthur Wilson McDaniels, 46, of Houston and Marcus Terrance Weathersby, 49, of Port Neches, each pleaded guilty to drug trafficking violations today before U.S. Magistrate Judge Zack Hawthorn.

According to court documents, beginning in January 2022, local law enforcement and federal agents began an investigation into a drug trafficking conspiracy involving phencyclidine (PCP) and fentanyl in Jefferson County.

The investigation revealed McDaniels was supplying drugs from Houston to Weathersby in Port Neches for further distribution in the area. Law enforcement ultimately seized approximately 1.7 kilograms of PCP and three ounces of fentanyl during the course of the investigation. McDaniels and Weathersby were indicted by a federal grand jury on May 11, 2022.

McDaniels pleaded guilty today to conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute PCP and fentanyl. Weathersby pleaded guilty to conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute fentanyl.

"If you are dealing dangerous drugs in our community we are coming after you," said U.S. Attorney Brit Featherston. "These drugs are capable of killing many people. There is a dangerous wave of illegal fentanyl poisoning our citizens. Please talk about this, discuss this, share this message with others to save a life. In 2022, fentanyl is suspected of killing more Americans than car crashes and gun crimes combined. This is a problem."

McDaniels faces up to 40 years in federal prison. Weathersby faces up to life in federal prison.

Sentencing will be determined by the court based on the advisory sentencing guidelines and other statutory factors and sentencing hearings will be scheduled after the completion of a presentence investigation by the U.S. Probation Office.

This case was investigated by the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the Port Arthur Police Department and prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Anderson.

Deciduous trees put on Autumn show

By Greg Grant
Smith County Horticulturist

Our hot dry summer was known for the color brown.

But as the days get cooler and shorter, deciduous trees such as bald cypress, black gum, Chinese pistache, crapemyrtle, dogwood, ginkgo, hickories, maples, oaks, pears, sassafras, sumacs, and sweetgum put on an autumn show in shades of yellow, orange, red, burgundy, and purple.

In many parts of the country, fall foliage plays an important role in tourism. I think it should here as well, since most of Texas has little fall color to admire.

Many think that cool weather or frost causes the leaves to change color.

While temperature may dictate the color and its intensity, it is only one of the environmental factors that play a part in coloring up deciduous trees. To understand the whole process, it is important to understand the growth cycle of our deciduous trees.

During the growing season, trees store up carbohydrates to support next year's growth.

The process that starts the cascade of events resulting in fall color begins in early autumn when the days begin to get shorter and the nights longer. When nights reach a certain length, the cells at the base of the leaf stalk form an abscission layer and slowly begin to block the transport of carbohydrates from the leaf to the branch.

During the growing season, chlorophyll, which makes leaves green, is constantly replaced. Chlorophyll breaks down with exposure to light, so the leaves have to constantly manufacture new chlorophyll to replace that lost.

In autumn, when the connection between the leaf and the rest of the plant begins to be blocked off, the production of chlorophyll slows and then stops. In a fairly short time period, the green chlorophyll disappears entirely.

This is when classic fall colors are revealed. Green chlorophyll normally masks the yellow pigments known as xanthophylls and the orange pigments called carotenoids.

Both then become visible when the chlorophyll is gone. These colors are present in the leaf throughout the growing season. Red and purple pigments come from anthocyanins.

In the fall, anthocyanins are manufactured from the sugars that are trapped in the leaf. Some years more are produced and, in some years, less.

Temperature, sunlight, and soil moisture greatly influence the quality of the fall foliage display.

A growing season with ample moisture followed by a rather dry, cool, sunny autumn marked by mild days and cool frostless nights provides the best conditions for development of the best fall colors. Early hard freezes, heavy rain, and high wind can put an end to the show.

DISTRICT 9-4A WRAP

New season begins for 9-4A playoff teams

After seven weeks of battling each other, the top four District 9-4A teams will play at least one more week as the bi-district season kicks off around the state.

Chapel Hill locked up the top district seed with a 32-20 win at Kilgore last Friday, while Palestine qualified for the No. 4 spot despite losing to Athens, 42-29, in Athens.

Palestine and Jacksonville each finished the district year with 2-4 league records but the Wildcats earned the playoff berth by virtue of their 55-52 victory over the Fightin' Indians on Oct. 14.

Chapel Hill will now take on Livingston (4-6), the No. 4 seed from District 10-4A on Thursday (Nov. 10) and Kilgore will play Little Cyprus-Mauriceville (6-4) on Friday, Nov. 11.

Palestine is scheduled to play the No. 1 team in District 10-4A, Lumberton, on Thursday, (Nov. 10).

Lindale, meanwhile, locked up the No. 3 seed in 9-4A with its win over Jacksonville on Oct. 28.

Going into last Friday's action, virtually the only thing left to decide was the top two playoff positions in 9-4A as Chapel Hill traveled to Kilgore.

Chapel Hill's Ricky Stewart rushed for three touchdowns in the battle of the Bulldogs and sophomore quarterback Demetrius Brisbon tossed two more to lead Chapel Hill to the league title and its eighth win in a row.

Stewart rushed for 222 yards on 18 carries, while Brisbon tacked on 65 yards on nine carries. The quarterback was four of seven through the air for 90 yards with two interceptions.

By the end of the first period, Kilgore owned a 10-6 lead after Leo Yzaguirre booted a 25-yard field goal. But Chapel Hill grabbed the lead following a Dillion Johnson interception set up the Chapel Hill offense at the Kilgore 40.

From there, Stewart scored from 60 yards out and the visitors never looked back.

On the first play of the second period, Chapel Hill added to it lead with a 42 yard scoring pass from Brisbon to Jayvin Mayfield.

Kilgore managed to trim the Chapel Hill lead to 26-17 on its initial drive of the third period, and with just over 11 minutes left in the game, Yzaguirre kicked a 43-yard field goal to bring the Bulldogs to within 26-20.

However, on its next drive Chapel Hill put the game away with Brisbon connecting with Deuce McGregor on a 15-yard scoring pass.

Fisheries Center hosting 2nd annual "Veteran's Day" event

ATHENS – Officials with the Texas Freshwater Fisheries Center have announced the second annual "Veterans Day at the TFFC" event to honor and support veterans, scheduled for 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Nov. 12.

There will be free admission for veterans and their families.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Fisheries Technician and former Marine Nicholas Griffin organized the event and launched this tradition in 2021 to connect with veterans and give them a way to enjoy the outdoors.

"The mission of the event is simple-get veterans outdoors," said Griffin. "It can be tough for veterans transitioning back into civilian life. For me personally, no matter what was going on in my life and all the hustle and bustle we encounter, being outdoors always put me at ease. There are some great organizations out there that are dedicated to helping make this happen and we have invited them out to the TFFC to get as many veterans in the outdoors as we can."

The Fallen Outdoors, Cover 6 Outdoors, Headwaters for Heroes, Project Healing Waters and Patriot Anglers are some of the organizations with that same mission.

This event will allow visitors to find out more information about these organizations, what they have to offer, and donate to support their efforts to get more veterans outdoors.

Additionally, there will be guided fishing trip giveaways for veterans and Pond King Inc. will conduct its "Patriots 4 Patriots" drawing for its Patriot Two-Man Pontoon Boat.

Visitors will also have a chance to win other prizes, and merchandise will be available for purchase to further benefit veterans. Attendees can also take advantage of fly casting and fly-tying instruction, which is a new addition to this year's event.

Anglers and their families will have the opportunity to visit with top professional anglers from Major League Fishing, including Gary Klein, Alton Jones, Sr., Jeff Sprague and Kelly Jordon who will be on site signing autographs and visiting with attendees.

"It's so special to me to get to spend time with our nation's veterans and their families on Veteran's Day," said Jordon. "I get to fish for a living thanks to their service and it's my privilege to get to spend time with them and their families and talk about fishing at the Fisheries Center."

Located in Athens, TFFC includes a working fish hatchery, a visitor center with 300,000 gallons of aquaria focusing on underwater wildlife in the state, recreational fishing ponds and fisheries science exhibits. It is home to the Toyota ShareLunker program, which invites anglers to donate 13-pound-plus-sized largemouth bass for research and breeding purposes. TFFC also houses the Texas Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame, which honors individuals and organizations that have made significant contributions to freshwater fishing in Texas.

The Texas Game Warden Museum, where visitors can learn about the history of the organization and current TPWD game warden operations, is also located at the TFFC. In addition, TFFC facilitates the annual Fish Art Contest in Texas, which is part of a conservation education program designed to spark the imaginations of students while providing valuable lessons about fish and the importance of conserving Texas' aquatic resources.

"We are grateful for the service of our nation's veterans and thankful that we, along with Mr. Klein, Mr. Jordon, Mr. Sprague, and Mr. Jones, Sr. are able to spend the day sharing all that TFFC has to offer with them and their families," said Tom Lang, TFFC Director.

The center currently operates from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, and 1-4 p.m. on Sunday.

For additional information about TFFC and to plan your visit, check out the TFFC website and Facebook page.

Homeowners may defer taxes on appreciating home value

Texas homeowners may postpone paying the current property taxes on the appreciating value of their homes according to officials with the Smith County Appraisal District.

Homeowners may take advantage of a payment option called "residence homestead tax deferral" by signing an affidavit at the Smith County Appraisal District office.

This special form of tax relief allows homeowners to pay the taxes on 105 percent of the preceding year's appraised value of their homesteads, plus the taxes on any new improvements to the homesteads.

The remaining taxes are deferred and accrue interest at an annual rate of 8 percent. "The deferral postpones paying a portion of the taxes on the home. It does not cancel them," said Carol Dixon, Chief Appraiser of the Smith County Appraisal District. A homeowner may not receive the deferral if the home's taxes go delinquent.

The deferral applies to property taxes imposed after the first tax year the property qualified as the individual's residence homestead. Homeowners who qualified for residence homestead exemptions in 2021 may use the deferral beginning in tax year 2022.

After a deferral affidavit is filed, no taxing unit can start or continue a lawsuit for the deferred taxes as long as that person owns and lives in that home.

"When the taxpayer no longer owns and lives in the home," Dixon said, "the deferred taxes become due."

If the taxes are not paid, penalties may be applied and taxing units may sue to collect all deferred taxes, penalties and interest.

For more information or to obtain deferral forms, contact the Smith County Appraisal District, 245 S.E. Loop 323, Tyler, 903-510-8600. www.smithcad.org

Cascading wisteria remains showstopper

By Jim Powell

Smith County Master Gardener

Fragrant lavender or white clusters of wisteria cascading over a trellis or just about anything signifies springtime in East Texas.

The blooming wisteria vine is a showstopper that causes us to stop, look and admire.

The best thing about wisteria is that it is easy to cultivate and very undemanding. It grows very vigorously in East Texas and rewards us with its dazzling blossoms in March or April before its leaves appear.

Grafted container-grown wisterias can usually be purchased from our local nurseries in the spring. Nursery bought plants will bloom when the plant is two years old.

It's better to purchase a potted plant that is in bloom. Wisterias are easy to transplant, so anyone with mature wisterias growing in their garden will probably be willing to share an offspring with you. Just remember, it will take at least two years for an offspring to bloom.

After planting a young vine, keep it amply watered during the summer months. Once the vine is established, proper pruning is important to keep it healthy and controlled.

Without pruning, wisterias will not bloom properly. It is recommended that heavy pruning be done in the spring after the vine has finished blooming before the new growth appears.

Since wisteria grows so fast, it is also recommended doing additional trimming until July. The spring flowering buds begin forming in late summer.

You can let your Wisteria grow as a vine or tree. If you want it to grow as a vine, allow only three or four branches to grow when the plant is young.

Tie these branches to a fence or trellis. If you want to create a free-standing tree, tie the main vine to a strong metal support. I use a metal fence post.

Keep cutting off the side branches until the height you desire. Then, cut the top back to encourage branching. As with the vine, severe pruning is required each year.

As with some other vines, suckers will continually shoot up from the root, so be careful that you plant the wisteria where you can control it. It is not recommended to attach the vine to your house or a young tree.

The Smith County Master Gardener program is a volunteer organization in connection with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service.

Navigating nutrition during the holidays

By Claudann Jones
Smith County Extension Agent
Family and Community Health

Healthy holiday eating is a battle on two fronts, with indulgent food options at home and at parties. From sugar cookies and eggnog to buffets and multi-course meals, the time between Halloween and New Year's Eve is a minefield for eating well.

Even before the first invitation arrives, it's helpful to set some realistic expectations. The holiday season is almost inevitably caloric and indulgent. In order to enjoy what friends, family and office parties have to offer, as well as lower some diet-related stress, focus on maintaining your weight rather than losing weight. Allow yourself more flexibility this time of year. There will be temptations in every direction, and with a little planning, you can indulge in your favorite foods while still eating well.

Increasing, or at least prioritizing, exercise can be beneficial during this period. Parking a little further away, walking when possible — even in the cold weather — can not only help you de-stress, but it can also help you keep your weight stable.

Strategies to keep in mind:

1. Eat Beforehand

Eat breakfast, lunch and any of your usual energy boosters plus protein throughout the day as well as something small immediately before your event. When you skip meals in an effort to reserve calories, you often end up overeating, not to mention feeling sluggish and hungry throughout the day.

2. Survey the Options

When you arrive, take some time to see what's offered. Identify your healthy options and what will be your big indulgences. Then formulate a quick plan that will allow you to enjoy your favorite holiday foods without abandoning your healthy habits.

3. Avoid Grazing

If given the option of buffet appetizers or passed hors d'oeuvres, wait for the food to come to you and use a small plate to help you control serving size.

While you may not always have the option to contribute a dish, when the opportunity presents itself, bring the healthy food you want to see at the party.

Commissioners OK ARPA funds for Winona

we absolutely needed to get done," County Judge Nathaniel Moran has said. "It will have the biggest impact on a rural community in Smith County."

The ARPA funding from Smith County would pay to construct a lift station and a force main, close down the city's old wastewater plant and instead, send its wastewater to be treated at ETMUD's plant. The cost of the lift station and force main would be $3,677,516.

Benefits would include lower operation and maintenance costs for Winona residents, regionalization of wastewater treatment which would improve the service to citizens of Northern Smith County, improved water quality for the Sabine River Basin, and increase marketability and tax valuation for commercial property in the area.

"The end all, be all is a lift station and force main to our station to pump it," Thompson said.

Panic buttons, locked doors for schools

Texas public schools would have to install panic buttons in classrooms and ensure all doors and windows are locked and monitored under new proposed safety standards released last week by the Texas Education Agency.

The proposal is the latest effort to strengthen school safety after 19 children and two teachers were killed at Robb Elementary in Uvalde last May in the state's deadliest school shooting.

The Dallas Morning News reported that school districts in coming weeks can apply for grants from TEA to cover spending on security-related items, including installment of silent panic buttons this year. Each district will receive at least $200,000, with funds awarded on a per-student count.

Districts would also be required to undergo twice-annual maintenance checks to make sure that two-way radio equipment used by law enforcement and first responders works inside their school buildings. Previous reports indicate poor radio communication was one reason law enforcement didn't confront the gunman for more than an hour in Uvalde.

20% increase in traffic deaths in oil and gas regions

More than 79,000 traffic crashes were recorded in 2021 in the state's five main energy sectors — the Permian Basin, Eagle Ford Shale, Barnett Shale, Anadarko Basin and the Haynesville/Bossier Shale — resulting in 1,119 fatalities. The Texas Department of Transportation launched its "Be Safe. Drive Smart" fall campaign to remind drivers to slow down, stay alert and be extra cautious when driving in high-traffic oil- and gas-producing areas.

Drivers are urged to follow the posted speed limit and adjust driving to road conditions; don't text or talk when behind the wheel; give large trucks plenty of space; pass only when it's safe to do so; and always buckle up.

Outside of school, Lauren enjoys hiking, gardening, reading medical journals, and volunteering at her mother's school. She believes she is impacting the world by encouraging and supporting her teammates, and by helping others build confidence through practical advice. She plans to attend Texas A&M University and study medicine. Lauren's future goals include working as an obstetrician.

MADYLEN MORGAN is the daughter of Ila and Aaron Morgan. She is the president and social officer for the drill team and a member of the National Honor Society and the education and training program. Madlylen believes she is impacting the world by showing kindness to others and volunteering in her community. She plans to attend Texas Women's University and study occupational therapy. Madlylen's future goals include working as an occupational therapist.

TREY MAZRATIAN is the son of Rachel and Beamon Holloway. He is a manager for the basketball team and a member of the National Honor Society, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and the varsity track and field, powerlifting, and football teams. He is also a member of the first team All-District football team. Trey believes he is impacting the world simply by "showing up" because being present allows him to be an ear for those who need to talk and a friend to those in need. He plans to attend The University of Texas at Tyler and study biology. Trey's future goals include working as a dentist and running his own business.

MITCHELL TIPTON is the son of Lanette and Clay Tipton. He is a member of the National Honor society and the University Interscholastic League competition team for computer science. Mitchell believes he is impacting the world by challenging himself to be a better person each day, and, thereby, motivating others to reach their full potential. He plans to attend The University of Texas at Austin and study computer science. Mitchell's future goals include working for a company he enjoys that allows him to maintain a good work/life balance.
